Why we need an international campaign

- Abortion is still in the criminal law of almost every country in the world. It has been decriminalised in only one country (Canada, 1988). It is completely illegal in 5 countries; highly legally restricted in countries where 40% of women in the world live. Or it may be legal on paper but refused in practice, or unsafe or inaccessible due to high fees.

- Very few countries outside the developed world allow abortion for socioeconomic and family planning reasons, or at the woman’s request. Even where it is on request, it is usually only in the first trimester.

- Abortion is still associated with stigma, fear, isolation, rejection, violence, murder, clinic closures, prosecution & imprisonment.
In Europe in particular...

- Abortion is still illegal in Ireland, Northern Ireland, Poland and Malta.
- Recent threats to restrict existing laws have been made in Spain, Great Britain, Italy, Portugal, Ukraine, Moldova, Hungary, Romania, and Switzerland, and actually carried out in Russia and Turkey.
- Women having abortions and abortion providers have been criminally investigated in Great Britain, Netherlands and Spain, put on trial in Spain, and threatened with prison in Britain in recent years.
- Women seeking second trimester abortions, especially over 20-22 weeks, still having to travel to 1 - 3 countries before finding an abortion.
- The anti-abortion movement is making a major comeback, fuelled by the Vatican, rightwing US groups and others.
So we started an international campaign!

In 2011, the Post-Abortion Consortium USA invited ICMA to consider broadening the consortium to become a global safe abortion network. What should that mean? Did anyone else feel the need for this? We consulted colleagues and supporters attending three regional conferences in late 2011, in Mexico, Indonesia, and Senegal. Most said: What we really need is a campaign.

We brought together 26 people from Argentina, Colombia, Dominican Republic, Mexico, Puerto Rico, India, Malaysia, Pakistan, Philippines, Kenya, Poland, Portugal, Switzerland, UK, Romania, Russia, Moldova, and USA, working at national, regional or international level, in April 2012. We agreed to launch a campaign. ICMA was elected to act as 1st coordinator, we announced it on 28 May, and sent out an invitation to endorse the campaign to everyone we knew around the world.
International Campaign for Women’s Right to Safe Abortion

Aims + objectives

➢ To build an international campaign to promote universal access to safe, legal abortion as a women’s health & human rights issue.

➢ To make the impact of unsafe and illegal abortion on women’s lives visible.

➢ To increase public awareness of women’s need for safe abortion, in order to increase public understanding and support.

➢ To commit ourselves to the protection of women having abortions and health professionals providing safe abortions, including in legally restricted settings.

Guiding principles

➢ No woman should be obliged to continue an unwanted pregnancy.

➢ Abortion should not be restricted, prohibited or criminalised.
Invitation to endorse

There are many organizations working worldwide to improve women's access to safe abortion services – through advocacy, law and policy reform, capacity building, service delivery, training, information sharing and networking. Almost everyone we talked to felt there is a growing need to link together... combine our efforts... and challenge the growing threat posed by conservative political and religious forces, who are seeking to turn the clock back, block efforts to improve laws and provide services, and exclude abortion from maternal mortality and family planning initiatives.

This campaign aspires to become such a movement, and to become larger than the sum of its parts by uniting us across borders and constituencies. Involvement in the campaign is open to all civil society and other groups/organizations/networks/individuals who endorse its aims, objectives and guiding principles and who support women's right to safe abortion. = 620 groups/individuals in 91 countries since April 2012.
Focus of the campaign

- To build capacity to advocate for the right to safe abortion at national level, because change can only happen on the ground in countries.

- To motivate and support regional networking, organised by national and regional advocates, to plan and coordinate joint activities, to collaborate in existing initiatives and to create new initiatives.

- To act together to promote the legitimacy of the right to safe abortion in all relevant international forums.
2012 actions

- Organise national events and actions on the right to safe abortion for 28 September, International Day of Action for the Decriminalization of Abortion.

- Respond to national solidarity requests, and

- Collaborate to convene regional networking meetings in 2012 or 2013 to plan appropriate and feasible action for the coming years, develop plans for capacity building for advocacy, and start to build a democratic movement, working from national level up, to campaign for universal access to safe abortion.
